The IFCN - Dairy Research Network - is an internationally operating research company, cooperating with researchers from around 100 countries and serving another network of over 100 companies in the global dairy chain.

Our office is located in Kiel, where we work in a multicultural team of 22 people. As we plan to expand our IT Team, we are looking for highly motivated students, who want to gain working experience. We offer modern technology, high IT equipment standards as well as a supporting role in the development process of our new IFCN Data Platform.

Job description for a student assistant:

Student assistant position supporting the IT Manager in:
- Developing, maintaining and improving company web solutions
- Developing responsive web designs that are mobile friendly
- Protecting sites by designing and installing security precautions
- Assisting in website planning with wireframes, site maps and graphics
- Maintaining developed code in the revision code repository
- Bug fix, QA problem solving

Your educational and personal background
- Currently pursuing a BSc or MSc in computer science or a related technical field
- Knowledge in general economics will be seen as an asset

Your skills and experiences
- Experience working in an IT department or related (R&D, e-commerce)
- Knowledge of user interface development using HTML5, CSS3 and JavaScript with knowledge about one of the modern frameworks
- Good eye for design with attention to detail
- Basic knowledge about one of Customer Relationship Management
- Website and/or GitHub repository
- Logical / analytical thinking and self-organization
- Team player and intercultural competence
- Problem-solving skills
- Good command / good working knowledge of English, every other language is an asset!

Application

Please send your application letter, your CV in English, references and your potential starting date via e-mail to marieke.fischer@ifcndairy.org